Jekko intensifies its presence in South American markets via collaboration with FA.RO. Italian Technology.

Italian mini crane specialist Jekko has announced a collaboration with FA.RO. Italian Technology, a company that represents Italian enterprises producing machinery, accessories and innovative technologies for the construction, mining and agricultural industries in Latin America.

FA.RO. Italian Technology is now Jekko's official representative for all LATAM countries except Mexico, Brazil, Uruguay and Argentina which are already represented by the following official dealers Sitsa, Guindaste Aranha, Manger and BH Maquinarias respectively.

According to Jekko, FA.RO. has extensive experience in the markets of Central and South America, and the Caribbean Islands, with offices in key cities and a wide network of active contacts across the region.

Jekko has been active in the Latin American market for the last 15 years but is looking to strengthen its presence here as it says it sees its potential as a fast-growing market.
