Based at its headquarters in Aspropyrgos, ARSIS has a well-structured and technically skilled organisation that delivers pre- and post-sales support across Greece. Across the entire Jekko range, ARSIS will be responsible for sales activities, after-sales service and technical consulting. The cooperation aims to ensure consistent brand representation and qualified local support for customers.

"The appointment of ARSIS represents an important step in the development of our dealer network," said Alberto Franceschini, Sales Director at Jekko. "We place great value on working with partners that have technical competence and a structured approach to customer support. ARSIS meets these requirements and will represent the Jekko brand in the Greek market."

From ARSIS, the agreement confirms the company's focus on collaboration with international manufacturers. "We are pleased to start this cooperation with Jekko," said Yannis Katsounas, CEO of ARSIS. "Jekko is a recognised manufacturer in the lifting sector, and this partnership allows us to include its product range within our commercial offering for the Greek market."

ARSIS will distribute the full Jekko range, spanning SPX mini cranes (2.8–8 tonnes), JF articulated cranes (6.1–21.5 tonnes) and MPK minipickers (0.6–5 tonnes), as well as the new families presented at Bauma 2025: the TRX truck-mounted minicrane and the JCX telescopic crawler crane.
