Jekko move in Poland

Italian spider crane manufacturer Jekko has appointed Hewea as its exclusive distributor for Poland starting this week.

Hewea, based in Byków north east of Wrocław in Southern Poland, will offer the full line of Jekko cranes and attachments, while also providing product and customer support for new and existing Jekko customers and cranes in Poland, through its regional sales teams and 68 authorised service centres.

Founded in 1988 Hewea supplies cranes, aerial lifts, hook lifts and skip loaders for transport, logistics, forestry and rental companies. It has distributed Fassi loader cranes throughout Poland since 1997, originally as part of its truck body building business. It also offers the Cela range of spider lifts and truck mounted platforms.

Chief executive Wiesław Szoplik said: “Jekko represents a natural extension of our lifting equipment offering. Its compact and technologically advanced machines respond perfectly to the growing demand for versatile lifting solutions in Poland. We are looking forward to combining Jekko technology with our sales and service network.”

Jekko sales director, Alberto Franceschini added: “Hewea has the technical expertise, market knowledge and a national organisation that we were looking for. Their long experience in the lifting sector makes them an ideal partner to support Jekko customers and further develop our presence in Poland.”
